The School of Postgraduate Medicine is delighted to be working once again with the British Society for the Study of Vulval Diseases (BSSVD) to offer this two day short course for health care professionals keen to know more about vulval problems. The previous courses have been very popular and well evaluated. The content is delivered over two days by a multi-disciplinary group of well-known experienced health care professionals working in dermatology, gynaecology and sexual health and includes significant patient input. The teaching programme has been designed to meet the requirements for basic training in vulval disorders for specialist registrars working in dermatology, gynaecology and sexual health. Delegates are welcome to attend the two days of teaching only (non-assessed course) or may prefer to register for the assessed course. Students who are successful in the assessment will be awarded 15 credits at masters level.

Content

The course will include:

- Specific history and examination skills
- Common vulval dermatoses: diagnosis and management
- Sexually transmitted infections and vulval disorders
- Vulval pain syndromes and their management
- Benign, premalignant and malignant vulval disease
- The importance of the multi-disciplinary team
- The patients view on vulval disorders

Who Should Attend?

The course will be of interest to:

- Specialist registrars in dermatology, sexual health, and obstetrics and gynaecology
- General Practitioners, GPwSIs, practice nurses, nurse practitioners,
- Family planning health care professionals, community gynaecologists
- Anyone performing regular cervical smear examinations

Dates

March 8th and 9th 2011

Application

To apply please contact:

Madeleine Flanagan, email: m.flanagan@herts.ac.uk
Telephone: 01707 286400
Vanessa Mason, email: v.r.mason@herts.ac.uk
Telephone: 01707 284665

Fees

£260 non-assessed, £400 assessed

Venue

College Lane Campus, University of Hertfordshire, Hatfield AL9 10AB

For further information on dermatology courses visit www.go.herts.ac.uk/pgms or contact Madeleine Flanagan
Email m.flanagan@herts.ac.uk Telephone +44 (0) 1707 286400
To apply direct, email health@herts.ac.uk